

Cataracts Doctor Discussion Guide

Once your cataracts have developed to the point where they interfere with your daily activities, such as driving or reading, it's time to set up a consultation with an eye doctor to discuss your treatment options. Because there is no single solution that works for everyone, it is helpful to have a list of questions ready to guide you to the right option.

Questions To Ask Your Doctor

Which type of intraocular lens (IOL) would I benefit most from?

How long is the recovery time?

What will my vision be like after recovery?

Will I still need to wear glasses or contacts after surgery?

Do I have any general health or other eye conditions that could rule out cataract removal?

If I have other eye conditions, how can I best manage these conditions together?

Will any of my current prescriptions or over-the-counter drugs complicate the procedure or recovery process?

How much does cataract surgery cost?

What is the post-surgery follow-up process?
